

Richard Amory has served as Grant Manager for the North Texas Food Bank since July 2008. He is responsible for all aspects of grant solicitation from private sources, including foundations and other organizational grantors. Prior to assuming this role, Richard's focus was on state and federal grants and contracts, first as a consultant with Nonprofit Capital Management and, most recently, with the Boston Public Health Commission. Richard wrote his first grant proposal to fund a community project he helped organize while serving in the Sustainable Food Security Program of the U.S. Peace Corps, Nicaragua.
